AXSMarine launches new corporate website Shipping knowledge tool firm gives site a modern, professional look

AXSMarine, the industry leader in the provision of easy-to-use interactive knowledge tools tailored to the specific needs of charterers, owners, operators and brokers in dry bulk, wet bulk and liner shipping, has recently completely redesigned its public website (<http://www.axsmarine.com>).

As is often traditional for new companies, the company's previous public website had been created and maintained by the engineers on staff. However, with AXSMarine now entering its seventh year of operations, Chief Executive Officer Fabrice Demichel decided to contract a team of design professionals to create a fresh new look.

"AXSMarine is growing steadily," said Mr. Demichel, "We have over 300 member-customers now, and our goal is, of course, to continue to grow. Our website is our face to the outside world. I'm pleased with our new look, and quite certain our members will find the site more informative, more dynamic and easier to use."
